

Publisher's Note

The writings in this volume span a forty year period in the professional life of Dr. Corinne Lathrop Gilb. When she assembled this collection, shortly before her death in 2003, she occasionally updated or revised her earlier comments, indicated here by enclosed brackets. Because these essays, sermons, and papers all originally appeared in different publications or as notes from different periods, there were some minor stylistic inconsistencies that the publishers deemed best to make uniform in this collection. A few endnotes were incomplete at the time of her passing, and we were unable to find the original sources. We regret any omissions and apologize to those who might be affected by these omissions.
