

CORINNE LATHROP GILB

Curriculum Vitae

My research and writing have focused on three specialized areas—business organization, technology, and international trade and finance; law, government, and geopolitics; and cities--and how these three areas have interrelated, both in the present and historically. This has entailed an examination of paradigms, theories, and interdisciplinary methods of research; a comparative look at the role of culture (symbols and values); and some in-depth analysis of specific geographic areas.

Business Organization, Technology, and International Trade and Finance

My research and writing in this field are ongoing. Aside from childhood trips between the United States and Canada, I have been traveling abroad systematically since 1963, visiting 90 countries to date, many repeatedly and extensively, often meeting with heads of state, cabinet members, top legislators, etc. Attended the Pacific Rim 1989 meeting in Hong Kong that preceded the formation of the Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation organization. Attended Asia Society Corporate Division conferences in Taipei, Tokyo, and Seoul. For six years in Detroit was the City's liaison with the Japanese auto industry. Met with European Union representatives in Brussels. Was an invited participant in a meeting of ministers of commerce and trade representatives from 50 African countries. Participated in the Harvard/Stanford trip to the Persian Gulf (including Saudi Arabia and Yemen) in 1995. Taught a course on the implications of NAFTA before NAFTA was created. Have worked on the American automobile industry's relations with Canada and Mexico. Have visited nearly every Latin American country; Mexico, repeatedly. And much more.

I am the representative to the United Nations-NGOs meetings for the International Organization for Unification of Terminological Neologisms (scientific and technical terms). Since my husband was vice president of R&D for 35 years of a company that has several foreign subsidiaries, and he himself holds some 60 patents, I have long had direct exposure to this field. In Detroit between 1979 and 1985, I sat on three boards with top executives of the auto industry and on the Michigan committee concerned with matching funds for Chrysler's loan guarantees. I wrote the Mayor's letters to Washington concerning Japanese voluntary export quotas.

In recent years, I have attended a number of national and international conferences on emerging markets, GATT (WTO), specific country economies and their international trade, telecommunications, the economics of the entertainment industry, multimedia, the biotechnology industry, transportation technology, shipping, specific computer applications, and the operations and organization of international companies.

I attended the U.S./France Industrial Policy conference at Columbia University, the White House conference on Small Business in 1980, and the Congressional Quarterly Conference on Industrial Preparedness, Washington, June, 1985. Associate member of Detroit Economic Club.

As a volunteer in 1995-1996, I have written to date reports of twelve speeches for the Silicon Valley Global Trading Center Quarterly Newsletter:

- Dr. Prabu Goel, "Operating a Subsidiary in India—Challenges and Rewards."
- Michael H. Armacost (former U.S. ambassador to Japan), "Playing the Business Game in the Pacific Rim. What Are the Government Rules?"
- Jon S. Tompkins (chairman and CEO of Tencor Instruments), "Managing Growth in a Global Market."
- Minoru Sam Araki (president Lockheed Martin Missiles and Spaces), "Positioned for a New Era."
- Lewis E. Platt (chairman, president, and CEO of Hewlett-Packard), "Going for Growth in Global Markets."
- Carol Bartz (chairman, president, and CEO of Autodesk), "The Advantages of Challenges of a Virtual Company in a Global Marketplace."
- Guerrino De Luca (president, Claris), "Internet and Culturization, Global Software Strategies."
- John Morgridge (chairman, Cisco Systems), "Electronic Culture, Key to Global Markets."
- Al Wilunowski (CEO and president of Communications and Power Industries), "Challenges of Corporate Divestment."
- Dick Kashow (chairman, CEO, Raychem), "Rejuvenating a Global Company."
- T.J. Rodgers (president and CEO, Cypress Semiconductor), "My Choice: Immigration or Corporate Welfare."
- Dr. Tapan Munroe (chief economist, PG&E), "Silicon Valley Economic Forecast 1996: How Will the Valley Fare Within the Global Marketplace?"

Paper to Joint Meeting of Operations Research Society of America and the Institute of Management Sciences, Milwaukee, 1979. (I organized a conference in Detroit in 1980 on the coming role of high technology and was named chairperson for the first model Cooperative Generic Technology Center proposed by the Carter administration with heads of manufacturing for Ford, GM, Chrysler, Deere, and others as committee members.

"An Overview of the Cooperative Generic Technology Center," paper to Michigan Robotics Research Circle, Ann Arbor, November 20, 1980.

"Research Center for Detroit," Michigan State Economic Record, 23(1) (January, 1981): 3-4.

"Digital Confluence, Space, Time, and Civilization," to International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations conference, Dayton, 1995.

"Corporate Responsibility in a Humanistic Society," paper to Humanistic Transdisciplinary Association conference, Chicago, May 7, 1977.

"Some Issues Concerning the Division of Responsibility Between Business Corporations and Public Government," paper to Academy of Management symposium, San Diego, August, 1981.

"The Coming Age of Coal," paper to International Science Foundation conference, Paris, 1971.

"Detroit and the Future of the Auto Industry," talk to executives of the Japanese Bridgestone Tire and Chemical Co., October 19, 1981.

"What is the Economic Future?" talk to Detroit Interagency Collaborative Body, September 14, 1982.

Lesson plan on historical international trade and cultural exchange between Europe and India/Asia in Heidi Roupp (ed.), Teaching World History (Armonk, NY: M. E. Sharpe, 1996).

Historical: "The Impact of European Merchants on European Colonies," paper to conference of International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations, May, 1990; also served on panel on "Trade and Other Diasporas."

I have also produced 18 typewritten oral histories on California labor-management relations on deposit in the University of California, Berkeley Library.

"J. Paul, St. Sure, Some Comments on Employer Organizations as Seen by Employers' Representatives," 1957, 737 pages.

"William G. Storie, Employer Organizations in San Francisco," 1958-1959, 378 pages.

"Roger Lapham, An Interview on Shipping, Labor, City Government and American Foreign Aid," 1956, 515 pages.

"Thomas G. Plant and the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company (1907-1934)," 1956, 84 pages.

"Paul Scharrenberg Reminiscences," 1954, 133 pages.

"The Trucking Industry, 1930-1950, as Told by Roy B. Thompson," 1958, 547 pages.

"Einar Mohn, Teamster Leader," 1959-1965, 732 pages.

William J. Conby, "Teamster Life in San Francisco Before World War I," 1957, 16 pages.

"Woodie E. Daniels, the Dairy Industry and the Milk Drivers' Union in San Francisco East Bay," 1957, 105 pages.

"The Dairy Industry and the Milk Drivers Union in the San Francisco East Bay, An Interview with Christopher Benson Malstrom," 1957, 145 pages.

"G.A. 'Fred' Silverthorn, Teamsters' Local 302 in Alameda County, California," 1957, 80 pages.

"Fred Wettstein and Stephen Gilligan, Milk Wagon Drivers' Union Local 226," 1958, 205 pages.

"Jennie Matyas and the ILGWU," 1955, 409 pages.

"Warren K. Billings, the Story of a Rebel," 1957, 375 pages.

"Larry Vail, Union Organization of Department of Store Clerks in San Francisco and California," 1958-1959, 237 pages.

"Warren G. Desepte, the Early Days of Grocery Clerk Unionism," 1958, 180 pages.

"Seth Brown and the ITU in Los Angeles," 1957, 144 pages.

"Henry Melnikow and the National Labor Bureau," 1958, 538 pages.

Other business-related oral histories:

"Ralph Merritt" (California raisin industry, 1956, 140 pages.

"An Interview with Adrien J. Falk" (head of S&W Foods), 1955, 180 pages.

Law, Lawyers, Government

From 1949 to 1951, I worked for the California State Bar researching its history. As a consequence, I wrote a masters' thesis on the origin of the State Bar at the University of California, Berkeley; attended Boalt Hall at Berkeley for three years as a special student while I was completing my doctorate at Harvard; and wrote my doctoral dissertation on "Self-Governing Professions and the Public Welfare." For seven years I was a research associate at the Center for the Study of Law and Society at U.C. Berkeley, producing memoranda on court structure. At Wayne State University, I created and directed for 10 years an M.A./J.D. program for law students who wanted an auxiliary degree in history. I taught the core seminar for that program, "Introduction to the Historical Context of the Law," and a course on the comparative history of law in the world.

I have been a member of the American Society for Legal History for many years and two international legal philosophy associations. I am a former member of the American and Western Political Science Associations, the International Political Science Association, and the International Studies Association. I am also a member of the World Affairs Council and Commonwealth Club, Northern California. In 1963, I met with Colonel Nasser's cabinet in Egypt, King Hussein in Jordan, leaders of the Knesset in Israel, and leaders in Turkey; also with Japanese legislators and party leaders, and cabinet members and Pandit Nehru in India. In the fall of 1993, I was one of a group of California lawyers and judges, led by the then-dean of Santa Clara University Law School, on a trip to Singapore, Bangkok, and all parts of Vietnam visiting with lawyers, law teachers, judges, and top officials in Vietnam interested in revising that country's business law. I was a consultant to the California Assembly's Finance Committee, 1963-1964, producing a report on income tax law that led to a ballot proposition. My book on the professions also led to ballot propositions.

My work on the law led me to issues concerning neo-corporatism and federalism, both in the present and past. I testified before a California Senate committee about regional government.

Government leadership:

"Zhou en-lai" and "Margaret Thatcher," Great Leaders of the World (Gale Research, 1992)

"Georges Pompidou" and "Francois Mitterand," Great Lives in the 20th Century, 4th. ed., Frank N. Magill (Pasadena: Salem Press, 1990): 1580-1585, 1902-1906.

Review of Felix Gilbert, To the Farewell Address: Ideas of Early American Foreign Policy (Princeton: Princeton University Press, 1961) for American Quarterly, 14(1) (Spring, 1962).

Corporatism, federalism:

Hidden Hierarchies, the Professions and Government (New York: Harper & Row, 1966; Greenwood, 1976; since reprinted).

"Public or Private Government?" Handbook of Organizational Design, eds. Paul C. Nystrom and William H. Starbuck, 2. (New York: Oxford University Press, 1980).

"Professional Associations as Private Governments," Private Government, ed. Sanford Lakoff (Glenview, IL: Scott Foresman, 1973).

"The Role of the Organized Professions in the Public Lawmaking Process," in Supplement to the Western Political Quarterly, 16(3) (September, 1963): 70-71.

"Toward a Cross Cultural Comparison of the Intersections of Public and Private Space," paper to International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations conference, April 1, 1976.

"The Transitional Nature of American Federalism," paper to Organization of American Historians conference, 1976.

"The Effects of Religious Spatial Concepts on the Structure of Politics," a paper to the Society for the Scientific Study of Religion, Philadelphia, October 29, 1976.

Law:

Discussant and organizer of panel on "Law in the Pacific Rim: Cultural Problems in Interpretation," International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations, Berkeley, 1989.

Review of David Ziskin, Labor Laws in the Middle East, Tradition in Transition (Los Angeles: Litlaw Foundation, 1990) in Comparative Civilizations Review, 272 (Fall, 1992).

Review of Elisabeth A. Cawthon and David E. Narrett, eds., Essays on English Law and the American Experience (College Station: Texas A&M University Press, 1944) in Western Legal Review of History (forthcoming).

Review of John Obie, The Law of the Land: Two Hundred Years of American Farmland Policy (Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 1987) in Michigan Historical Review, 15(1) (February, 1989).

Conformity of State Personal Income Tax Law to Federal Income Tax Law (California Assembly, 1964).

Lawyers and judges (mostly California):

Review of Michael Steven Smith, Notebook of a Sixties Lawyer (Brooklyn: Smyrna Press, 1992) in Michigan Historical Review, 18(2) (Fall, 1992).

"Jesse W. Carter, An American Individualist" (California Supreme Court justice), Pacific Historical Review (May, 1960): 145-157.

Typed oral history in University of California, Berkeley Library: "California Supreme Court Justice Jesse W. Carter," 1955, 546 pages.

Biographies of Clara Shortridge Foltz and Laura de Force Gordon (lawyers) in Notable American Women, ed. Edward T. James (Cambridge: Harvard University Press, 1971).

"Supporters and Opponents, the State Bar Idea," State Bar of California Journal, 34(5) (September-October, 1959): 866-872.

"History—the Bar and the State," State Bar of California Journal, 34(3) (May-June, 1959): 356-361.

"Origin of the State Bar," State Bar of California Journal, 34(1) (January-February, 1959): 38-43.

Four other oral histories about law and government in U.C. Berkeley Library:

"John Francis Neylan" (attorney to William Randolph Hearst and California Governor Hiram Johnson's Finance Chairman), 1954, 319 pages.

"Mathew O. Tobriner, Lawyer for Quasi-Public Associations" (California Supreme Court Justice), 1958, 342 pages.

"Reminiscences of Kemper Campbell" (a founder of California State Bar), 1954, 82 pages.

"Herbert Coffin Jones on California Government and Public Issues," 1957, 318 pages.

Book reviews in Journal of the California State Bar and California Historical Quarterly.

Cities

I chose the subject of cities because historically some urban law was closely related to merchant and maritime law, and because cities are microcosms of most other aspects of society, economy, and government. In successive moves from the general to the particular, I began by teaching "great world cities" as cultural artefacts, then taught "cities and empires," then the history of American cities, then I organized and directed a Liberal Arts Urban Studies Program involving faculty from 12 different fields, taught its introductory course and moderated its faculty/student seminar. This led to my appointment as Director of the Planning Department, City of Detroit, from 1979 to 1985, a 75-member, $3 million a year budget department. I directed preparation of, edited, and sometimes wrote a multivolumed Master Plan for the City (which was officially adopted) and a number of special reports--over 40 booklength documents altogether; supervised the Data Division; administered federal Urban Development Action grants and Community Block Grants, and Economic Development Administration activities. With the Budget Department, my department prepared the City's Capital Agenda used for the City's bond issuance and participated in the preparation of the City's annual $1.6 billion budget. I was also responsible for briefing numerous visiting foreign officials and reporters, made a number of TV and radio appearances, appeared in foreign films about the city, chaired community meetings, and served on a number of boards and committees. I worked on a regular basis with City Council, county, state, and federal governments.

I am a member of the International Association for Urban Planning History and formerly of the Society for American City and Regional Planning History; member of the American Planning Association; past member of the American Urban History Society and the Urban Design Institute.

For some years I have been preparing a series of book manuscripts on the history of world cities since their beginnings in terms of their embeddedness in geopolitical and economic systems. Along the way I have been delivering related academic papers, publishing articles, and reviewing related books.

Cities Before Europe Went Global (Atherton, Ca: Atherton Press, 2001) [unpublished; ms at Hoover Institution Archives, Stanford University]

"The Planning of Ancient Capitals," paper to the International Association for Urban Planning History, Thessaloniki, Greece, November, 1996.

Oral review of Nancy Shatzman Steinhardt, Chinese Imperial City Planning (Honolulu: University of Hawaii Press, 1990), at International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations conference, 1992.

"The Impact of Foreign Trade on Cities," paper to the International Conference on Urban Economic Development, Beijing, 1988. "Urban Planning in America," paper to 200 Yunnan province officials at Kunming, China, 1982.

"Localism and Globalism in Present-Day Asian Cities," paper to International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations conference, Berkeley, June, 1989.

"Pacific Rim Impacts on California Cities," paper to annual meeting of the California Chapter of the American Planning Association, Palm Springs, October, 1988, recorded, reproduced and distributed.

"Third World Cities: Their Role in the Global Economy," in Cities in a Global Society, eds. Richard Knight and Gary Gappert (Newbury Park, CA: Sage, 1989).

"City Form, Governmental Structure, and the Space of Power [Rome, China, Germany, France]," paper to American Political Science Association conference, Washington, 1968.

Lesson plan on the history of world city systems in Heidi Roupp (ed.), Teaching World History (Almonk, NY: M. E. Sharpe, 1996).

Review of Leonardo Benevolo, The European City, tr. Carl Ipsen (Cambridge, MA: Blackwell, 1993) in History: Review of New Books, 23(1) (Fall, 1994).

Review of Peter Clark, Small Towns in Early Modern Europe (New York: Cambridge University Press, 1993) in History: Review of New Books, 24(3) (Spring, 1996).

Review of Charles Tilly and Wim P. Blackmans, eds., Cities and the Rise of States in Europe, A.D. 1000 to 1800 (Boulder: Westview Press, 1994) in History: Review of New Books, (Fall, 1995).

Review of James A. Leith, Space and Revolution: Projects for Monuments, Squares, and Public Building in France, 1789-1799 (Montreal: McGill-Queens University Press, 1991) in History: Review of New Books, 1992).

Review of Barbara A. Hanawalt, Growing Up in Medieval London: The Experience of Childhood in History (New York: Oxford University Press, 1993) for Comparative Civilizations Review, 33 (Fall, 1995).

Review of John P. McKay, Tramways and Trolleys: The Rise of Urban Mass Transport in Europe (Princeton: Princeton Universities Press, 1976) for The American Historical Review (April, 1977).

"Factors Contributing to Change in the European Port System," Landscape and Urban Planning (Elsevier), 22 (1992): 205-207. Paper on this subject to International Conference on European Urbanization, Akron, April, 1990.

Review of Joel A. Tarr and Gabriel Dupuy (eds.), Technology and the Rise of the Networked City in Europe and America (Philadelphia: Temple University Press, 1988) in Journal of American History, 76(3) (December, 1989).

"The Myth of the North American City," paper to Canadian Historical Association conference, Windsor, Ontario, 1988.

Review of Gunther Barth, Instant Cities, Urbanization and the Rise of San Francisco and Denver (New York: Oxford University Press, 1974) in Reviews in American History (December, 1975).

"Technology and the Fortune of Cities [in the world since their beginnings]," paper to joint World History Association/International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations conference, Pomona, June, 1996.

"Urban History and Comparative National History—Some Common Questions and Points of Congruence," paper to American Historical Association conference, Boston, December, 1970.

"Cities and Civilization," paper to International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations conference, Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, June, 1991.

"Are Cities Civilizations?" banquet speech at the International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations conference, Scranton, 1993.

"Civilizational Differences in the Legal Definitions of Cities," paper to International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations conference, Milwaukee, April, 1978.

"Cultural and Socioeconomic Foundations of Major Changes in Urban Form," paper to International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations, Yellow Springs, Ohio, May, 1985.

Review of Donald J. Olsen, The City as a Work of Art: London, Paris, Vienna (New Haven: Yale University Press, 1986) in History Review of New Books (Spring, 1989).

"Perceiving the City," paper to International Urban Design Conference, Toronto, October, 1982.

Paper on urban history to International Conference on Urban and Regional Planning, Ljubljana, Yugoslavia, 1968.

Statement in Urban Design Update (January-February, 1986)

Book review on labanotation in Landscape.

Review of Dominic Capeci, Jr., and Martha Wilkerson, Layered Violence: The Detroit Riots of 1943, for Journal of American Ethnic History, 13(2) (Winter, 1994).

"Detroit's Economy, Then and Now," paper to Harvard University Center for European Studies conference, Detroit, December, 1981.

"Crisis in History—Motor City, the Future of Detroit," paper to Organization of American Historians conference, Detroit, April, 1981.

Section of "Detroit's Next Steps" in The Detrouter, 3(3) (March, 1981): 47 in which I said, among other things: "In the next decade we will feel the full impact of the electronics revolution; advanced industry will automate its manufacturing processes... One way to do this is to become the center in the U.S. for development of new technology for manufacturing processes."

In Donna Galland's "Architecture: Detroit's Next Renaissance," The Detrouter, 1(7) (November, 1979), 14, I am quoted at length including as follows: "We are entering a postindustrial era when the old forms of cities are becoming obsolete. A creative, vital, innovative society will create for itself an exciting environment...vital for everyone, not just for some."

"Detroit Must Move Forward," Historic Preservation, 33(1) (January-February, 1981).

Keynote speaker on "Governmental Power and Urban Trends: Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce Leadership Conference, November 8, 1986; several other speeches to this group.

"Preservation versus New Development in CBDs," paper to American Planning Association conference, Boston, April 28, 1981.

"History and Community—Historical Designation from Detroit's Point of View" to Second Annual Conference on Public History, Pittsburgh, April 19, 1980.

Numerous other speeches about cities, public policy, and other topics to all kinds of groups in various parts of the United States, audiences up to 3000 in size; also TV and radio interviews, U.S. and Canada.

Op-ed editorial for Detroit News, December 10, 1989, p. 21A.

Oral history, in U.C.-Berkeley Library, "Life in a Mining Town...Hornitos, California," 1954, 41 pages.

Oral history, in U.C.-Berkeley Library, "Mariposa Reminiscences," 1954, 66 pages.

"Eye on the Future," Buildings, 78(7) (July, 1984): 76-78.

Testimony to the Subcommittee on Government Research of the Committee on Government Operations, 90th Congress, 1st Session, on S. 843 "A Bill to Promote the Public Welfare and to Create a Council of Social Advisors, A Social Report of the President and a Joint Committee on the Social Report, July 19, 29, 26, 1967" (U.S. Government Printing Office): 1968: 233-248.

Participant, roundtable discussion of women planning directors, recorded as "Women's Work" in Planning (American Planning Association, October 1986): 24-29.

"The Role of Women in American Cities," to U.S. Department of State Leadership Program, November, 1973.

Attended White House Conference on Balanced Growth, 1979; Midwestern Workshop of HUD's Development Options for the 80s Program; U.S. Economic Development Administration Workshop on Urban Economic Development, 1981.

Area Studies

Since all factors connect at a local level, it is helpful to gain some sense of the history and culture of specific localities. I have done this in my detailed research on business, law, and cities, and by writing book reviews and doing oral histories. I am first vice-president of the International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations, in my fifth term on its Executive Council, a member of the European Studies Association, and a former member of the American Association for Asian Studies and the American Studies Association.

Review of F. Roy Willis, World Civilizations, 2 vols. (Lexington, MA: D.C. Heath, 1982) for Comparative Civilizations Review, 28 (Spring, 1992).

Oral review of Diane Z. Chase and Arlen F. Chase (eds.), Mesoamerican Elites, An Archaeological Assessment (Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1992) for International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations, Scranton, June, 1993.

Oral review of Terence N. D'Altroy, Provincial Power in the Inka Empire (Washington: Smithsonian Institution Press, 1992) for International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations, Scranton, June, 1993.

Review of Kenneth J. Andrien and Rolena Adorna (eds.), Transatlantic Encounters: Europeans and Andeans in the Sixteenth Century (Berkeley and Los Angeles: University of California Press, 1991) for Comparative Civilizations Review, 29 (Fall, 1993).

Review of David J. Wasserstein, The Caliphate in the West: An Islamic Political Institution in the Iberian Peninsula (Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1995) for Comparative Civilizations Review, 33 (Fall, 1995).

Review of Peter G. Foote and David M. Wilson, The Viking Achievement: The Society and Culture of Early Medieval Scandinavia (New York: St. Martin's Press, 1989) for Comparative Civilizations Review, 31 (Fall, 1994).

Oral review of Ali A. Mazrui, ed., Africa Since 1935 (Berkeley: Heinemann-California, UNESCO, 1993) for International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations Conference, Pomona, June, 1996.

"Are Liberal Values Expendable in Today's Pluralistic America?" Third Annual Lawrence Lecture, First Unitarian Church of Berkeley, October 5, 1979, reproduced and distributed to church members. (One of six lectures I delivered to California Unitarians, most in the 1960s.)

"Some Varieties of Metaphor in American Images of Selfhood," in Designs of Selfhood, ed. Vytautas Kavolis (Cranbury, N.J.: Farleigh Dickinson University Press, 1984).

"The Black Man in America," paper at conference, Wayne State University, Fall, 1968.

On American higher education:

Biography of Mary Atkins (former president of Mills College), Notable American Women, 1607-1950, ed. Edward T. James (Cambridge: Harvard University Press, 1971): 65-66.

Oral history, "E. Spencer and Constance Macky Reminiscences," (arts college president and wife), 1955(?), 121 pages.

Oral history, "Baldwin Woods on University of California Extension," 1956, 105 pages.

Oral history, "Farnham Griffiths," (University of California history) 1954, 46 pages.

Oral history, "Peter J. Shields," (a founder of the University of California, Davis) 1953-1954, 108 pages.

Other aspects of California life and culture:

Oral history, "William E. Colby, Reminiscences," (conservationist) 1953, 143 pages.

Oral history, "Frederick Webb Hodge, Ethnologist," 1956, 264 pages.

Oral history, "Johan Hagemeyer, Photographer," 1955, 107 pages.

Oral history, "Louis Basse Siegriest Reminiscences," (artist) 1953, 95 pages.

Oral history, "Herbert Coggins: From Horatio Alger to Eugene Debs," (socialist writer), 172 pages.

Oral history, "Interview with James William Laughlin," 1955, 31 pages.

Oral history, "Mrs. Simon J. Lubin," (widow of founder of California Commission of Immigration and Housing), 1954, 54 pages.

Theory and Methods

Toward Holistic History. The Odyssey of an Interdisciplinary Historian (Atherton, CA: Atherton Press, 2000) [revised hardback edition, 2005]

"Methodological Problems in Civilizational Analyses--History, Law, and the Social Sciences," paper presented to International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations, June, 1989, Berkeley, California.

"Whose World? What History?" Comparative Civilizations Review, 35 (Fall, 1996)

"Politics, Long-Distance Trade, Social Stratification, Cities: A Social Science Approach to the Study of Civilization," paper to International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations, Lexington, KY (April, 1992).

"Space and Time as the Structure of History," paper to American Historical Association conference, New York City, 1966.

"Time and Change in Twentieth Century Thought," Journal of World History, 9(4) (Paris: 1966): 867-888.

"Can We Measure Beauty?" paper to American Political Science Association conference, New York City, 1969.

"Play and Creativity," and summary report, papers to Wenner-Gren Foundation seminars on creativity (once a month for a year, New York City and Chicago, 1966-1967).

"Rhythm and Energy," paper to International Conference on Consciousness and Human Energy, Asilomar, California, 1976; repeated, International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations conference, 1995.

"Problems of Self-Space: An Historian's View Inward and Outward," Conference on Consciousness in Self and Society, Windsor Park, England, April, 1975.

"Should We Learn More About Ourselves?" (on bias in method) American Historical Review, 914 (1966): 867-883.

"Tape Recorded Interviewing," The American Archivist, 20(4) (October, 1957). (Also Phi Alpha Theta lecture on oral history at San Jose University, 1960).

Commentator, panel on "Alternate Careers for Historians," American Historical Association conference, San Francisco, December 29, 1978. Also, paper at first Public History conference, Santa Barbara, 1979. (Former member of national board, Public History Association.)

(Former member, American Sociological Association)

ADDENDA

Language training: Latin, French (including several classes at Alliance Française in San Francisco and Paris), German (including post-Ph.D. classes), Mandarin Chinese, Russian, Ukrainian

In addition to the university appointments listed, I was a teaching assistant at the University of California-Berkeley for two years and gave special lectures to a sociology class and a Law School seminar at Berkeley; University of California, Riverside, history and government departments; a management communications class at Menlo College in Atherton, California; Dickinson College, Pennsylvania, sociology department; Oakland University, Michigan (to whole university); geography, law and American Studies classes at Wayne State University; geography classes, Ryerson Polytechnical Institute, Toronto; geography class, University of Waterloo, Canada; a class at Henry Ford Community College, Michigan; an urban design class at the University of Detroit School of Architecture.

Various professional association offices held besides those listed. I have chaired numerous panels at association meetings and have given some 200 speeches in addition to those listed to public and professional groups in the U.S. and abroad.